Abstract

In this paper, we propose a fast and efficient algorithm for measuring the shape of large object which is as large as 2m in width. We use the least-square method to find out phase information of the object, which efficiently removes noise components on object. For unwrap algorithm we use a fast threshold method. The experimental result shows how efficiently the proposed algorithm removes noises and extracts the height information of object.